

STUDENT CENTRIC METHOD (2023-24)

The School of Geography organized seminar on various contemporary issues to sensitize the students on the issues related geographical sciences. Besides, a number of Workshop/Training programme, Webinar etc. were organized for students to make them familiar on recent development of geographical sciences and provide hands on training to equip them with necessary relevant skills.

School of Geography collaborated with IIRS, Dehradun to conduct the following Training/ Workshop/ Certificate course to inculcate the learning beyond classroom and classroom hour with self-pace. This method is entirely online based and draw huge interest of students as they got opportunity learn from national level experts from different domain of Geospatial technologies.

REPORT OF MATHEMATICS QUIZ CONDUCTED ON 09/10/2023

MATHSPRINT: SOLVE AND CONQUER

[INTRA-DEPARTMENT MATH QUIZ COMPETITION]

The much-anticipated event, "Mathsprit: Solve and Conquer," organized by the final year students of Pedagogy of Mathematics in the integrated B.Sc. B.Ed. program 2020-24, School of Education took place under the expert guidance of Mrs. Madhusmita Panda, Assistant Professor of Pedagogy of Mathematics. The quiz aimed not only to stimulate students' interest in mathematics but also to foster a sense of camaraderie among students and faculty while honing management skills.

Dr. Partha Sarathi Mallik, the Head of Department of School of Education and a respected figure in the field of education, inaugurated the quiz competition with an insightful address to the students. Emphasizing the pivotal role of mathematics, Dr. Mallik underscored its significance in fostering analytical thinking, problem-solving skills, and a structured mindset. The event, marked by Dr. Mallik's eloquence, not only inaugurated a quiz competition but also left a lasting impression on the students, instilling a deeper appreciation for the importance of mathematics in their academic and personal development.

The competition unfolded in two distinctive stages—preliminaries and finals—each designed to rigorously assess the participants' mathematical prowess. The preliminary round, conducted on September 30th, took the form of a comprehensive written test, meticulously gauging the contestants' theoretical understanding and problem-solving acumen. A commendable turnout of 37 participants showcased their skills during this phase. Following this initial evaluation, the most outstanding performers advanced to the finals, held orally on October 9th. In the culmination of the event, the top 10 students collaborated in teams, pooling their intellectual resources to tackle intricate mathematical challenges. The final round unfolded across five engaging segments, each designed to unravel the depth of the participants' mathematical insight and collaborative problem-solving abilities.

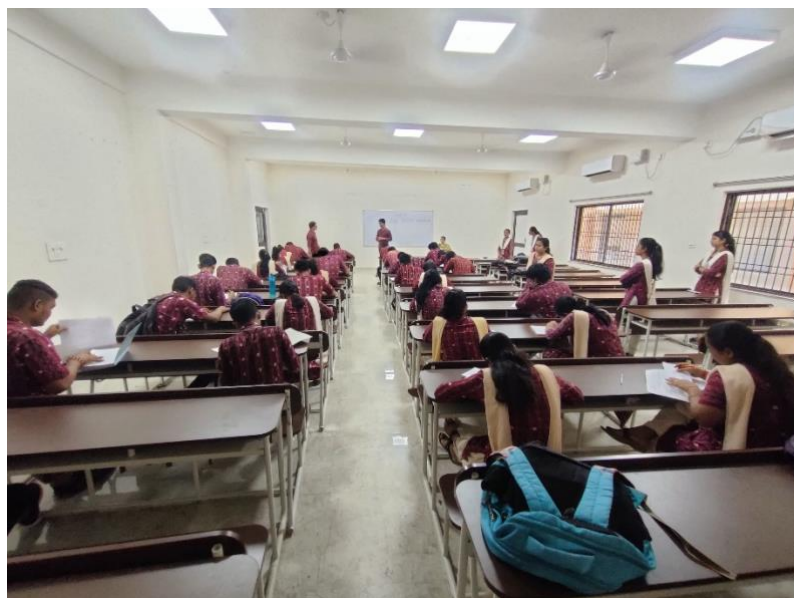

The primary motive behind organizing "Mathsprit: Solve and Conquer" was to instill a passion for mathematics among students. The event aimed to provide a platform for students to showcase their mathematical prowess, encouraging a deeper engagement with the subject. Additionally, by involving both students and faculty, the quiz sought to create a supportive learning environment and enhance participants' management skills.

To acknowledge the participants' efforts and achievements, certificates and medals were awarded to the winners. This not only celebrated individual and team accomplishments but also served as a motivational factor for continued excellence in the field of mathematics. Honorable Vice-Chancellor graced the occasion with his presence and encouraged students to participate in such academic events. Honorable Vice-Chancellor, along with the Head of the School of Education, Dr. Neena Dash, IQAC, Coordinator and other faculty members, brought an inspiring vibe to the event, motivating students to do their best in math. They not only handed out medals and prizes but also took the time to encourage and uplift the students. Mrs. Madhusmita Panda, Assistant Professor of Pedagogy of Mathematics, coordinated the prize distribution ceremony. The Vice-Chancellor shared some encouraging words, adding a personal touch to the occasion. A big thank you from the Pedagogy of Mathematics to all the participants, faculty, and special guests for making "Mathsprit: Solve and Conquer" a success! Your contributions were key to the event's achievement, and we're grateful for your involvement. Dr. Neena Dash proposed a vote of thanks.
